Cochrane review: content, structure, and format

The new focused review format uses a slightly different structure from the previous review format. In the focused review format:

- the main article now includes only the main content of the review, with everything else moved to supplementary materials;
- in-text citations are now numbers in square brackets;
- some subheadings are different.

For guidance on the content, structure, and format of all types of Cochrane reviews see:

- Cochrane Handbook for Systematic Reviews of Interventions
- Cochrane Handbook for Systematic Reviews of Diagnostic Test Accuracy
- PRISMA 2020 for systematic reviews (Reporting standards: changes to help create practical and sustainable Cochrane reviews)
- Focused review template
- RevMan Knowledge Base